§ 1.56 Duty to disclose information material to patentability.

(a) A patent by its very nature is affected with a public interest. The public interest in patent examination occurs when, at the time an application is being examined, the Office is teachings of all information materiality. Each individual associated with the filing and pr patent application has a duty of candor and good faith in dealing with the Office, which in Office all information known to that individual is disclosed in this section. The d disclose information exists with respect to each pending claim until the claim is canceled consideration, or the application becomes abandoned. Information materiality is canceled or withdrawn from consideration need not be submitted if the information is not ma of any claim remaining under consideration in the application. There is no duty to submit material materiality of any existing claim. The duty to disclose all information known patentability is deemed to be satisfied if all information materiality is disclosed in a patent was cited by the Office or submitted to the Office in the application. If the information is not disclosed, no patent will be granted on an application in connection with which fraud on the Office w the duty of disclosure was violated through bad faith or intentional misconduct. The Office carefully examine:

- (1) prior art cited in search reports of a foreign patent office in a counterpart app
 - (2) the closest information over which individuals associated with the filing or proc application believe any materiality defines, to make sure that any material informati therein is disclosed to the Office.
- (b) Under this section, information materiality when it is not cumulative to information alre or being made of record in the application, and
- (1) it establishes, by itself or in combination with other information materiality prima facie claim; or
 - (2) it refutes, or is inconsistent with, a position the applicant takes in:
 - (i) opposing an argument materiality relied on by the Office, or
 - (ii) asserting an argument materiality.

A prima facie case of unpatentability is established when the information compels a conclusion that the invention is unpatentable under the preponderance of evidence, burden-of-proof standard, giving each term its reasonable construction consistent with the specification, and before any consideration is given to the prior art. The burden of proof is on the party asserting unpatentability.

(c) Individuals associated with the filing or prosecution of a patent application within the meaning of this section include:

(1) each inventor named in the application;

(2) each attorney or agent who prepares or prosecutes the application; and

§ 1.56 Duty to disclose information material to patentability.

(a) A patent by its very nature is affected with a public interest. The public interest in patent examination occurs when, at the time an application is being examined, the Office is teachings of all information available to the public. Each individual associated with the filing and prosecution of a patent application has a duty of candor and good faith in dealing with the Office, which includes the disclosure of all information known to that individual that is material to the patentability of the claimed invention. The duty to disclose information exists with respect to each pending claim until the claim is canceled, withdrawn, or the application becomes abandoned. Information that is not material to the patentability of any claim remaining under consideration in the application. There is no duty to submit information that is not material to the patentability of any existing claim. The duty to disclose all information known to be material to the patentability of the claimed invention is deemed to be satisfied if all information that is material to the patentability of the claimed invention was cited by the Office or submitted to the Office in the application. If the applicant fails to disclose information that is material to the patentability of the claimed invention, no patent will be granted on an application in connection with which fraud on the Office was committed. The duty of disclosure was violated through bad faith or intentional misconduct. The Office will carefully examine:

(1) prior art cited in search reports of a foreign patent office in a counterpart application;

(2) the closest information over which individuals associated with the filing or prosecution of a patent application believe any patentable invention exists, to make sure that any material information therein is disclosed to the Office.

(b) Under this section, information is material to the patentability of a claim if it is not cumulative to information already of record in the application, and

(1) it establishes, by itself or in combination with other information, a prima facie case of unpatentability of the claim; or

(2) it refutes, or is inconsistent with, a position the applicant takes in:

(i) opposing an argument of patentability relied on by the Office, or

(ii) asserting an argument of patentability.

A prima facie case of unpatentability is established when the information compels a conclusion that unpatentable under the preponderance of evidence, burden-of-proof standard, giving each term its reasonable construction consistent with the specification, and before any consideration is given to the prior art, the invention is not novel or non-obvious. A prima facie case of unpatentability is established when the information compels a conclusion that unpatentable under the preponderance of evidence, burden-of-proof standard, giving each term its reasonable construction consistent with the specification, and before any consideration is given to the prior art, the invention is not novel or non-obvious.

(c) Individuals associated with the filing or prosecution of a patent application within the meaning of 35 U.S.C. 101 are:

(1) each inventor named in the application;
